- August 2015 to present Ph.D. candidate in Earth Sciences, Geophysics of the Solid Earth, National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM), Morelia unit, Morelia, MÉXICO.
Thesis below the supervision of Dr. José Luis Macías Vázquez (jlmacias@igeofisica.unam.mx)
Comitee: Dr. José Luis Arce Saldaña (jlarce@geologia.unam.mx) and Dr. Giovanni Sosa Ceballos (giovannis@igeofisica.unam.mx)
Place: UNAM Geophysics Institute, Michoacan unit, Morelia, MEXICO
Theme: Plinian eruptions associated to the post-activity of La Primavera, Mexico.
Objectives: Establish the distribution and stratigraphic order of the pyroclastic deposits, constrain their ages using the $^{230}\text{Th}/\text{U}$ and C^{14} radiometric dating methods, define their major and trace element composition using in-situ and whole-rock geochemical analysis, and use the relations between pyroclastic units and volcanic centers to improve the evolution model of La Primavera volcanic complex
